

Senior Software Developers Swansea, UK

Job description

This is an exciting opportunity for a Senior Software Developer to join Leadin UK based by the coast in South Wales. The initial four - six months will be spent working with our software team in Helsinki getting to know our systems and processes whilst working hands-on with one of our client projects. As a Senior Software Developer working at Leadin, you will work with a multidisciplinary team that designs and builds digital services in close cooperation with our clients. You will use the latest web or native technologies to create solutions that truly make a difference for the end users.

This is a unique opportunity to get to know the beautiful city of Helsinki whilst developing your software career. After the initial period you will be based out of our offices in Swansea, South Wales. As an International business we encourage transfers between our offices and welcome applications from suitably qualified professionals willing to relocate and be based in South Wales.

Skills & Requirements

You have experience in software development, and you are very comfortable with web technologies such as Angular JS, NodeJS, CSS and HTML5, or you have been through so many different technologies that you would learn those quickly. You will also be comfortable training and mentoring, writing automated tests, reviewing code, and producing and presenting releases. You will be experienced working in a Scrum/Agile development environment.

Also, if you are also interested in other aspects of digital service design, such as interaction or UI design, research, or testing, we'll encourage you to embrace your willingness to learn.

About Leadin
